

SOFT MATTRESS COVERS

What's the mattress cover for?

The mattress cover is a very important textile, which serves to protect the mattress and 'extend' its life over time. It is a blanket with elastic bands, to be placed between the mattress and the rest of the bedsheets.

Why do we use it?

The mattress cover promotes the dispersion of body moisture and prevents the onset of allergies, as it protects the mattress from dust that is under the bed.

While keeping us free from dust and mites, the mattress covers help to prevent dirt, one of the main enemies of the mattress, resulting in a more hygienic bed.

What is important is, is that it can be washed at high temperatures: at 60 °, in fact, hygiene is at its highest, this temperature also ensures the full suppression of dust mites.

Which mattress cover to choose?

The best products are certainly those in natural fibres, thermo-regulating, able to provide a cool bed in summer and a warm bed in winter.

The best fabric is, without a doubt, sanforized cotton, a strong, breathable, non-shrinkable and easily washable fabric at 60 °: it is no coincidence that this is the type of fabric most used by luxury hotels, which are very attentive to the welfare of customers and the total hygiene of their rooms.

If you want a product that is suitable for small children or people who have to stay in bed for a long time, you should choose a waterproof mattress cover, made of breathable material that protects the mattress from liquid spills.

Can the mattress cover be used on all types of mattress?

The mattress cover can be used on all mattresses, even on those in Memory Form: the important thing is that the cover is made of fabric without padding: the padded mattress covers, usually called toppers, are in fact quite another type of product, not always in line with modern memory mattresses.

If you buy a new mattress, always make sure to have a good mattress cover: if you have none, we recommend you to buy a good quality one.
